Working globally over the last 20+ years I've recorded many voices and loved the adventure of it all. From discovering the sounds of the jungle, deserts and mountains, to recording dialogue from helicopters, hot air balloons or at sea, to being privileged enough to enter someone's home and capture their personal story, I'm always conscientious about ensuring the best possible audio regardless of who, what or where I'm filming. Whether it's using a single microphone setup for a documentary or a multi mic array for light entertainment shows, I deeply care about the results, always endeavouring to bring out the best for my clients. Over the course of my career I've worked in documentaries, commercials, drama, light entertainment, children's television and current affairs continuing to explore a variety of working practices with a diverse range of producers.

The QE2 is one of the worlds most famous ocean liners and in November 2008 it made its final journey from Southampton to Dubai where it is to be converted into an exclusive hotel. Its 40 year history was quite remarkable in many aspects from the ships construction to the complexity of its day to day running. As part of the only Privileged film crew in the world to be on board during its final voyage I took great pride in capturing the audio and ensuring that the essence of this magnificent ship could be shared with all who care to listen to her.
